

My dear Miss Jefferson

I am very much obliged to you for the ring, which I shall value for your sake and I never will part with it. I am much hurt not to see you once more before we go, but Mr. Jefferson likewise told the Duke it was better not, so we must submit: the waistcoat with the enclosed note is from the Duke, he hopes you will wear it: et pensez quelque fois a lui, he is quite sorry at the idea of never being it again by you. I must again repeat all our entreaties to hear from you often, as we shall have always a most sincere regard for you, which neither time or absence can diminish. Tom dined with us today, he seems quite in despair that he shall now never see you. Mr. Stone intends calling upon you before he goes. Adieu, I shall always remain my dearest Miss Jefferson, your most

Affectionate Friend
