Governor-gage
Thursday

This last line was written.

I cannot express the pleasure of thinking of dear Jack.

Pleasure in writing to me
You can have no idea That pleasure I shall always have in hearing from you, Your almost selfish writing than usual C.

Elizabeth Tufton

Original manuscript privately owned enough to write you may will have Paris so soon as when you get to America, surrounded by dying rememons you will be too taken up with thinking how to live in other fortune than to lead a thought on your friends in Europe?
I may tell Boddam I wish her more than ever to come to England.

Here are several good Madam Doctor, by your account. I think her head quite turned off her horse interval of reason, pray give her a lead, her mind is turned in a judgment for herself to heat. recognition. I am afraid you will think me to be a little tardy in writing: in this instance, I have not some Chiseldon ho of my writing to write with.
I entreat the favour of you to buy a copy of these three carls, you know the rest that make a round them to the Duke of Devonshire, to make write such a letter, if you please.
I have in Heaven
Thursday. The faster proceed my instructions, myself of many hours more than (if it be 4, 6, &c)

Original manuscript privately owned